SAATCHI ART | "RISING STARS OF 2019" LIST

BY MEGUMI MURPHY

Saatchi Art prides themselves on making the experience of collecting artwork and artists easy, convenient and enjoyable.

For those who don't know, Saatchi Art is the world's leading online art gallery. They understand the value of emerging artists and the influence they have on the future. They are the next generation of visionaries that will be responsible for the direction that contemporary art continues in.

To ensure that the future of contemporary art is in good hands, an annual list of recent graduates from the best art schools in the US and UK is created. The list, also known as "Saatchi Art's Rising Stars," is diligently curated by Monty Preston and Aurora Garrison and led by Chief Curator Rebecca Wilson. Art collectors want to find artists they find worthy of investing in and this gives them an opportunity to find up-and-coming artists from a list that is both exclusive and credible.

The curators use their expertise to go through a meticulous process when selecting the featured artists. With a lot of research, they select the best of the best so that collectors are able to find quality artists in one collective space.

Saatchi Art's Rising Stars is like having access to a VIP guest list and it is being released on Monday, September 16th.

Be sure to look out for the new artists here and collect them before anyone else does.
